Chinese Forces In Retreat All Along Front In Korea

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, May 24.—An American tank-infantry task force, dashing 13 miles north, crossed Parallel 38 in east-central Korea today and another U.S. column recaptured the major mid-Korean hub of Chunchon.

South Korean spearheads in the west also reportedly slashed over the border into North Korea as part of a frontwide offensive described by Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet as unlimited in its objective.

Communist Assault Defeated

The top United Nations field commander declared the second round Communist spring assault has been "severely defeated" and that the enemy has "lost his nerve" and "turned turtle."

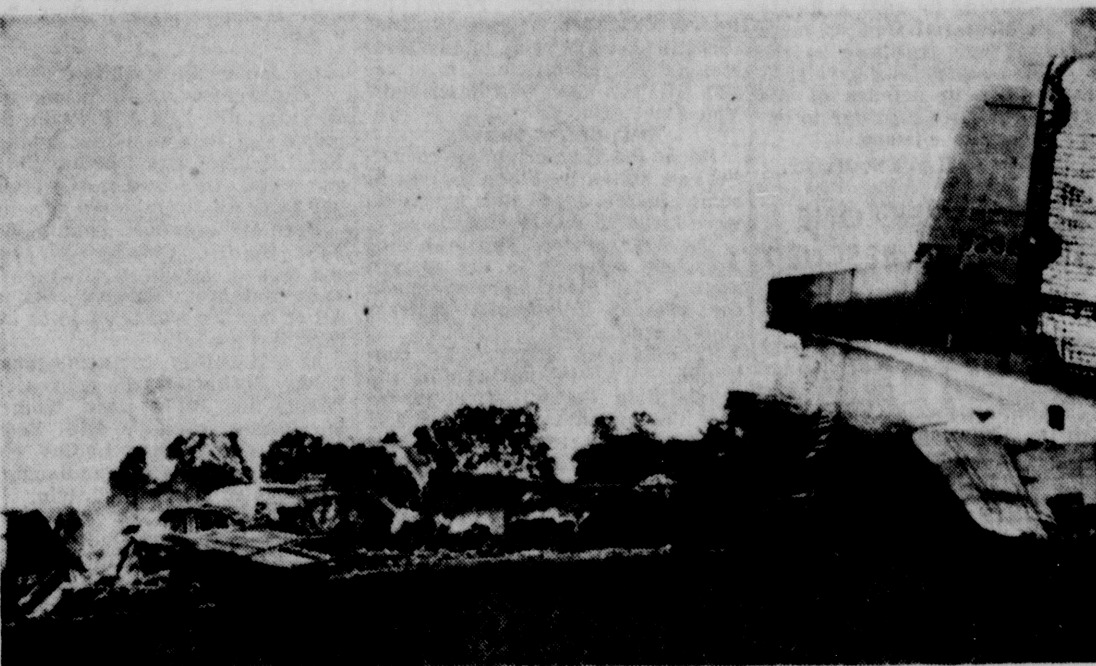

From the central sector came word Thursday night that a big American tank-infantry combat team smashed back into the mountain bastion and communications pivot of Chunchon, 45 miles north-east of Seoul.

In and around the city, the dispatch said, the American task force captured "more enemy troops than it could handle."

Then it sent a patrol across the Soyong river, heading toward the

Huge Army Transport Plane Crashes

NEW LISBON, Ind.—An Army C124A, transport plane, crashed and burned here, killing five and possibly six of the 12 passengers on board. The plane was up on a test flight. The pilot of the Globemaster, largest Army transport plane, said that "mechanical difficulties" forced him to make a crash landing.

Seven Are Dead, Five Injured In Plane Crash

Giant Globemaster Plane Crash Near New Castle, Indiana

NEW CASTLE, Ind., May 24.—(INS)—The Air Force today studied a pilot's harrowing account of how his giant Globemaster cargo plane crashed and burned near New Castle, killing seven and injuring five others aboard.

The huge 110-ton craft—an experimental plane capable of carrying 200 equipped infantrymen—exploded in flight yesterday and terrified onlookers who watched it plummet to the ground in flames.

Capt. John M. Christianson, the pilot, who climbed out of the wreckage unaided with four other survivors, said the four-engine plane developed mechanical difficulties when he tried to crash land. He explained:

"I went to the nearest open field, but was unable to clear a growth of trees."

The Globemaster ripped through a grove of cedar trees, uprooting two and slicing off trunks 30 inches in diameter.

The plane narrowly missed the farm home of John Dishro, knocking the family's television antenna off the roof, and struck a plowed field on an adjoining farm. Fire burned all but the tail assembly. Mrs. Ralph Abrams, telephone operator at nearby New Lisbon, said she saw the plane go up in flames and added:

"I don't see how anybody could have survived."

James Stetson, 30-year-old civilian on board the plane, told a reporter that "it sounded like an engine was running away" just before the crash.

Await Arrival Of Workmen To Tear Down Covered Bridge

Contractor in charge of dismantling the old covered bridge at Wilmington Junction over the Little Neshannock did not arrive on Wednesday, as scheduled, to start the work of tearing down the well known structure. Alfred A. Martin, highway superintendent, reported today.

Wednesday's rains evidently temporarily delayed the start of the work, Mr. Martin stated. The detour to be used for motorists who normally use the bridge to cross the creek will not be established until the work starts.

The workmen are expected momentarily to begin their task of erasing another of the county's oldest bridges to replace it with a modern concrete I-beam span. The work when started should not consume more than three months if weather conditions for construction work are favorable during the summer.

Gen. Collins Is Next Witness In Senate Probe

Gen. Bradley Ending His Testimony On Gen. MacArthur Ouster

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R) Iowa, demanded today that Secretary of State Acheson be called immediately in the Senate probe of Gen. MacArthur's dismissal to testify on "political aspects" of the ouster.

By JAMES LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Gen. Bradley today began completing his testimony in the Senate probe of Gen. MacArthur's dismissal, with the investigators more widely split along party lines than they were before he took the witness stand.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff widened the partisan rift by refusing to disclose details of secret White House conferences which preceded President Truman's removal of the Far East commander.

Bradley's windup appearance before the Senate armed services-foreign relations committee was his sixth.

Gen. Collins Next

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, is standing by to take the witness stand for the first time as soon as Bradley is excused.

Probers expect Collins to shed light on a key exchange between the Pentagon and MacArthur which Collins personally delivered to the Pacific commander early in January when it appeared U.S. troops might have to evacuate Korea.

Bradley testified Wednesday that military terms for a Korean War armistice have been prepared but

U.N. Forces Not To Stop Advance At 38th Parallel

Gen. Van Fleet Says Enemy Invasion 'Severely Defeated'

By ROBERT SCHAKNE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEAD-QUARTERS, Korea, May 24.—Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, top United Nations commander in Korea, announced today that his troops are on the offensive along the whole front with "no limitation" on their objective.

The U.S. Eighth Army chief made it plain that his forces, swiftly rebounding after shattering the "second round" Red spring offensive, are under no orders to stop at Parallel 38 but may drive back into Communist North Korea.

'Invaders Defeated'

The Chinese and North Korean invaders, the general declared, have been "severely defeated" and the "initial success" of the assault they launched a week ago "has been turned into complete failure."

"The Eighth Army," Van Fleet told newsmen at his field headquarters, "is attacking all along the front with no limitation being placed on our objective."

Replying to questions, he said the 38th Parallel boundary between South and North Korea is no barrier as far as tactical operations are concerned. He said it never was and still is not a barrier.

Iran Warns On Oil Decree

TEHRAN, May 24.—(INS)—The Iranian government warned the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. today that it has six days to cooperate in its own liquidation under a nationalization decree—or be wound up by compulsion.

The ultimatum followed an announcement by a government spokesman that Iran is determined to run its own oil fields even if there is a drop in production due to a lack of experienced personnel.

(In London, diplomatic sources said that Britain plans swift and firm action if Iran refuses to negotiate ultimate working of the fields under the nationalization decree. The foreign office denied, however, that economic sanctions are contemplated.)

Kazem Hassibi, a member of the Iranian Nationalization board said that the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil company will be expropriated.

If Britons now running the Anglo-Iranian company fail to cooperate, he said, production may have to be curtailed.

Hassibi said: "Anything we cannot manage we will close down."

Truman Warns On Possibilities Of World War

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS)—President Truman warned today that a third world war—with atomic weapons—would make a battlefield of the U. S. and throw civilization back into the dark ages.

The president told his news conference:

"I think we will go back to the dark ages if there is another world war. We will be a battlefield and can look forward to the destruction of cities that took place in Europe in the last war."

Mr. Truman said that because of this he is doing his utmost to preserve peace and prevent the outbreak of another global conflict.

Other developments at the chief executive's news conference were:

1. He would not comment on rumors of peace feelers in the Korean war or the mounting tension in Iran. He said Secretary of State Acheson gave the administration's point of view on both matters fully yesterday.

2. Mr. Truman dodged questions about whether he will run for reelection in 1952. However, he said

President Asks 8.5 Billions In Foreign Aid For Allies

By ROBERT NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Truman urged Congress today to provide 8.5 billion dollars in foreign aid, to help U. S. allies erect a world wide defensive shield against "power hungry" Communist aggression.

The Chief Executive warned in a special message that the threat of global atomic conflict "is a very real and terrible danger" and that the U. S. must for its own security save the other free nations from Soviet domination.

Mr. Truman declared: "The loss of Europe to the Soviet Union . . . would compel us to convert the United States into an isolated garrison state."

House Defeats Air Rifle Ban

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS)—A bill to curb sales and use of air rifles was defeated in the House today.

The measure fell when backers of the proposal failed to win a constitutional majority.

The vote was 97-46 but 105 ballots are needed to approve legislation.

Immediately after the roll call, Assemblymen James N. Robertson (R) Delaware, and Albert S. Readinger, (D) Berks, switched their votes from the bloc of 97 so that they may execute a parliamentary maneuver later and revive the controversial proposal.

If the bill is pushed through the House it must also win Senate approval and be signed by Gov. John S. Fine.

defense chiefs have been unable to get a United Nations decision on "political objectives."

Republican and Democratic committeemen split sharply in weighing Bradley's prolonged testimony.

Differ on Testimony

Sen. Hickenlooper (R) Ia., declared: "Gen. Bradley's testimony adds up to clear-cut evidence of the lack of concrete planning on our ultimate goal in Korea—and that is just what Gen. MacArthur was asking for—a policy decision. It is complete verification of MacArthur's declaration that there was no policy."

The senator said that the lack of "political guidance" to which Bradley referred was a "good example" of the absence of decision in Washington.

But Sen. McMahon (D) Conn., declared that Bradley's "appearance before the committee has been devastating to the MacArthur viewpoint." McMahon added that Bradley "is a great American of whom the country can be proud."

Many of the questions to be asked Collins revolve about his trip to Tokyo early in January when he delivered, according to previous testimony, the January 12 "study" of military possibilities to MacArthur.

This is the document which contained among 16 possibilities the four which MacArthur recommended in his address to Congress and on which he said the joint chiefs of staff agreed.

fleeing Reds still are capable of reforming their ranks and striking back. Van Fleet nevertheless declared:

"I think he (the enemy) has lost his nerve. I think he has turned turtle. I throw my dice for a heavy gamble. It paid off."

Used 300,000 in Assault

The head of all Allied ground forces in Korea described in detail how the Reds, in their latest and biggest offensive, switched from Korea's west front to the east to attack American and South Korean troops in that mountainous sector.

He said the enemy used an assault force of 300,000 troops, including five Chinese and three North Korean army corps, to hit the Allied Tenth Corps along the eastern half of the front.

The general declared that because of the heroic stand of the American Second Division, with its attached French and Dutch battalions, the massive Communist assault was halted.

"This magnificent fighting under Maj. Gen. (Clark) Ruffner (Second Division commander) stopped the enemy cold in an action that has been well described," Van Fleet said.

Reds Suffer Heavily

He added that crippling casualties, estimated by other sources at some 85,000 dead and wounded, were inflicted on the Reds.

The "unexpected" appearance of American reserves in the eastern sector, Van Fleet asserted, made the present Communist retreat "more precipitous."

"The Eighth Army," he continued, "is again moving forward to maintain the initiative, to inflict the maximum casualties and again, possibly, to precipitate prematurely the counterattack of which the enemy is capable, considering his reserve force."

The soft-spoken general praised the gallant Second Division for its "achievements in the recent battle which add to its new laurels so rightly deserved."

He attributed the collapse of some South Korean units to inexperience, explaining there were many ROK (Republic of Korea) troops "who had not learned the lesson of proper utilization of firepower."

the dispute over Gen. MacArthur's dismissal has not changed his mind at all as to any ideas on the presidency.

4. He made a strong plea for congress to get busy and approve new mobilization laws. He pointed out that these laws expire June 30 and said their renewal is absolutely vital to U. S. defense preparations.

CHUNCHON AGAIN RETAKEN BY U.S. FORCES

38th Parallel seven miles to the north. Beyond Chunchon forces were encountered.

Driving North

Elsewhere in the west-central sector, British and Canadian troops west of recaptured Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul, hampered north five and a half miles. South Korean units southwest of Chunchon gained six and a half miles Thursday.

Waves of U.S. Fifth Air Force planes simultaneously loosed a saturation bombing and strafing attack on North Korea's Chorwon-Humhwa-Hwachon triangle containing a vital road web and extending 18 miles above Parallel 38.

Such a heavy aerial barrage usually precedes an advance by ground forces into the area hit from the air.

Plunges Ahead

Another American armored task force farther west plunged three miles beyond Chango to within four miles of the 38th Parallel and shot up a group of retreating Chinese soldiers. The column then returned to the Chango vicinity to "button up" for the night.

Chango is 15 miles northeast of Uijongbu, northern gateway to Seoul.

A Thursday night message from the east-central sector said a "strong" American armored task force pushed north through Red rear guard resistance for 13 miles and crossed the parallel, splitting retreating Chinese armies in that area.

The powerful column ran into enemy greening fire but pressed forward to reach the Choyang river and reenter Communist North Korea, the dispatch said.

Directs from Helicopter

Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, commander of the Tenth Corps along the eastern half of the front, flew over the task force in a helicopter, personally directing traffic as the Americans scattered Red rear guard units and drove them across the 38th.

Elsewhere in the east-central sector Allied forces, paced by the famed American Second Division, punched out fresh gains ranging up to more than three miles.

The U.S. Eighth Army's Thursday night communiqué said UN troops were "continuing to advance against small groups" of Reds on the eastern half of the forward-moving front.

Pursuing Fleeing Reds

In all sectors, the bulletin related, Allied tanks and infantry were "pursuing the rapidly withdrawing" Chinese and North Korean troops.

Northwest and north of Seoul, the South Korean capital, ROK (Republic of Korea) and American columns met no enemy opposition as they raced toward or beyond the 38th Parallel.

In the central sector, Allied troops registered gains of 2,000 to 9,000 yards against "light resistance" during the day and tank-riding GIs scattered "small enemy units" below Chunchon, the communiqué said.

The bill was supported by both Democrats and Republicans in their 1950 campaign platforms.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Recall 'Balance Of Power'

The historic European concept of "balance of power"—almost forgotten in the present fast-moving age of jet planes and atomic bombs—was recalled today by British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison's visit to Vienna.

By a twist of circumstances, Morrison is the first man in his position to hold official talks in the Austrian capital since 1915.

The last occasion was in Congress of Vienna when the then Allied powers which had put a halt to the expansion of France under Napoleon Bonaparte, got together to carve up Europe on new lines.

Britain sent her greatest statesman of the time—Viscount Castlereagh. That Vienna meeting was ridiculed to some extent by contemporaries. It was the Prince De Ligne who wrote that "this congress does not march—it dances."

Forty Years Of Peace
But it is nevertheless true that the arrangements made in the midst of sumptuous banquets and gay soirees led to forty years of peace. The Austrian empire already was bankrupt and Vienna spent what little was left in the treasury to make one fresh place for herself in history.

Morrison's trip must have a very businesslike foundation behind it. Vienna has been called, and is, the last outpost of democratic freedom in central Europe.

It is many miles farther to the east even than Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia.

It is ringed around by Soviet communism and, like Berlin, remains under four-power military control.

But generally speaking, it remains a peaceful city despite occasional flareups and exchanges of shots between Allied and Soviet troops. And in its firm and unalterable electoral resistance to communism it represents a city and a country of enormous importance to the ideals of democracy.

Trip To Germany

Morrison preceded his visit to Vienna by a trip to Germany. In news conferences after meetings with German, American, British and French officials at Bonn and elsewhere, he gave voice to Britain's fears of a Nazi revival in the Reich.

He warned, on one occasion, that any threat to the present democratic structure of western Germany, regardless of its source, must be countered with all possible strength.

No such warning is necessary or applicable in Austria.

Nor is there any apparent need to study the Communist menace in the ancient land of the Hapsburgs.

Yet Morrison did not leave London without reason at a time of deep crisis brought about by Iran's unilateral seizure of the Anglo-Iranian oil fields. His intentions in going to the Austrian capital therefore must be traced to another source. They probably center fundamentally on Austria's desire for a formal peace treaty.

Negotiations Balked

All negotiations toward this end—and the same applies to Italy's constant demand for revisions in her own treaty—have been balked by the roadblocks of Soviet diplomacy.

The whole matter of liquidating the second world war even while the threat of a third one preoccupies all humanity, has been brought to the fore in recent days by the Italian government.

There is some similarity regarding the Austrian and Italian positions.

The government of Premier Alcide De Gasperi in Rome wants to cooperate fully in the military aspects of west European defense. It maintains that this is impossible while the extent of Italian armed forces is limited and domestic economies gravely example by absence of contributions from abroad, both in cash and in defense production orders.

Austria, less well-equipped to furnish troops for the army of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, feels it can do much in an economic sense to gird the continent for a possible showdown with communism.

But its government maintains that the full job is impossible until Austrian sovereignty is restored and a strain removed from the national treasury by removal of four-power occupation forces.

Morrison, in his long political career, has had a knack in the past for getting at the real core of such highly-complicated problems. He appears to remember our Lord Castlereagh's example and see whether or not at least temporary solution of Europe's vexing issues may be found along the Danube.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERY

In the days when Soviet-American relations were not quite as strained as they are now, a delegation of kooky Kremlinites came here seeking a loan. "As security," they pointed out, "you have to remember our coal, gold and iron."

"But that's still underground," said the American negotiator. "What have you on the surface?"

"The Russian spokesman's eyes flashed, and he barked, 'We have the Soviet government.' 'Tell you what we'll do,' proposed the American. 'We will wait till your coal, gold and iron are on the surface, and your Soviet government is underground, and then we will grant you the loan.'"

Bob Hope says he knows why the navy was so eager to commission Arthur Godfrey: "They knew darn well that if they didn't take him, he'd buy a navy of his own."

Hope disclosed further that Godfrey's second so important CBS executives, when talking about him, drop the last syllable of his name.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

By the end of the week we all will know just who is seeking a public office in New Castle and Lawrence county. Tuesday was the last day for the politically ambitious to file for the July primary election. . . . now a waiting period . . . or a period of grace if you like, is provided . . . just in case some of the lads and lassies who file, Tuesday decide to change their mind and withdraw from the ballot.

Tomorrow will be name pulling day. . . . the time when the candidates will see just where their name will appear on the ballot. . . . In most cases this doesn't mean a great deal. . . . but in some cases . . . sorry to relate the order of names can bring a change of events. . . . For example . . . often time the school board panel of which three or four are nominated . . . the first three or four names receive the most votes . . . Too many people don't stop to investigate the qualifications of those seeking the office.

This year . . . everyone should learn all they can about the candidates seeking office in all positions. . . . Mayor, Council, Judge, Treasurer (city and county) School Board. . . . Know what qualifications each candidate has for the particular office he or she seeks.

The City of New Castle for example is a more-than-a-million-dollar corporation. . . . Those who do the office work should be people whom you would trust with your own business. . . . and it is your own business. A million dollar outfit is still a big outfit regardless of Truman inflation. Big business needs people with vision. . . . people who can see that today isn't twenty years ago. Modern business methods used in a city, county or school operation can and has been accomplished.

Our school board right now is important. . . . Those who seek this position should be people with vision. . . . Ideas of how progress can be worked . . . and those with interests of progress in education and better plants and not solely athletics should be the ones selected in July. Keep your ears open for all political candidate qualifications.

Cease from anger, and forsake wrath: fret not thyself in any way to do evil.—Psalms 37:8.

Can't Stop Envyng Some

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

Envy is a detestable trait, and I have done my best to stamp it out of my being, but without complete success.

I've gone a pretty good way, however.

I have gotten over being envious of tall, handsome men with money, and short, ugly men with money, and medium-sized, medium-looking men with money.

No longer do I regard with envious eyes men who have better paper match cover collections than mine, or whose socks stay up without their having to wear garters.

Can't Stop Envyng
But for the life of me I can't stop envyng men who like to rough it on their vacations. Every time I meet a man who plans to spend two weeks or a month up to his Adam's apple in an ice cold trout stream, sleeping in a tent scarcely big enough to hold himself and the insects that want to nibble on him, I get as green-eyed as a Sultan's emerald.

I get the same reprehensible reaction when I read of a man who plans to get away from the cares of work by climbing the face of a mountain that doesn't even have a 5 o'clock shadow to cling to.

Oh, I sigh this time of year, to be the sort of man who likes to walk miles with a canoe on top of his head, and then launch it in a mess of boiling rapids, and shoot all the way from Canada to New Orleans, living off shrubs and relatives that he passes on the way.

The gals go for that sort of man. They like husbands who come back from their vacations as battered as a $35 special in a used car lot, and who smell of burned bacon, mosquito lotion, dead fish, and rotted wood and leaves.

Smelling Like Rocking Chair
Me, I always come back from a vacation smelling like a rocking chair, and with nothing more heroic to talk about than the morning I gave the maid the devil for leaving my covers in at the foot too tight, or how I held myself together when there wasn't any cream for my coffee two mornings running. A lesser man, I try to brag, would have blown sky high.

I am writing along these lines because of a brochure I received the other day inviting me (for a very reasonable fee) to be a member of a "jolly party" which would put out in July aboard a sailboat and cruise (if that's what a sailboat does) for a cover in a week.

Every member of the party will be a working deckhand, or will cook, scrub, repair sails, stand watch, handle the wheel, or be on the lookout for hurricanes, whales, icebergs, and other fun-producing whims of Nature.

The brochure said I'd have to hurry: only a few vacancies were left, and they were being rapidly filled. As an added feature, the boat—when rocks, tides, and hostile natives would allow—would lie at shore at night and the evening meal would be cooked on land.

Golly, I'd like to take that trip. Just to be able to talk about it when I got back. But if I took the trip I wouldn't be able to talk about it, save to my nurse from a hospital bed.

So I guess I'll have to go on envyng men who thrill to sleeping on branches filled with cones, or moss, and an occasional squirrel, and who prefer coffee cooked over twigs when a nice, soaking rain is falling, and who are just this side of Paradise when they can get up every morning at daylight for two weeks, sore and aching in every limb.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Miss Truman sails for Europe Friday to be gone two months. Obviously she has not been reading "The Reds may strike in Europe any minute" testimony.

Considering that the witnesses are supposed to be well informed and that she is close to the fount it's odd that this information has escaped her.

All I know is that if Margaret thinks Europe will be safe through July what can happen to Coney Island?

Shucks, if this slip of a girl is willing to gamble that the Russians aren't planning an "any minute" trip to London, why should Bradley and Marshall worry so much. They're not even in the family.

It's too bad she is leaving before the senate committees could get her views on the outlook for peace in Europe. . . . Apparently quite a bit more optimistic than the administration's.

While in England, Margaret will visit the British Trades' Fair. . . . Also not postponed on account of threat of immediate danger.

Do you suppose we need psychiatry?

QUATRAINS
PRAYER
Home safely bring them, Lord, we pray.
Soon let man's greatest folly end.
On wars which call our sons away
For peace we can't depend.

PATIENT
I must be one of the patient kind.
When the traffic is blocked and I'm far behind,
I take the delay without rage or scorn
Or thinking 'twould help if I blew the horn.

LOSER
He drove at top speed just to save a minute;
Had a race with the clock, but he failed to win it.
And nobody knows, now he's in his grave,
The reason he wanted a minute to save.

GRIEVANCE
He who quarrels with his neighbor
Takes a grievance to his labor,
And a grievance costs him dearly,
Since it hinders thinking clearly.

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—In the childhood of many of us there was a simple game called kalshes. The idea was to pull an individual straw out of a tangled mass without disturbing any other straw.

Trying to understand what the policy of the Truman administration is toward China bears some resemblance to this game. Except, it should be added, it is not at all simple. It becomes more difficult and complicated day by day.

A new straw seems to have been added to the mass by the speech that Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk made at the dinner in New York at the China Institute. That dinner was arranged by Henry R. Luce, the publisher, who has been perhaps the most faithful supporter of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in this country.

Puppet Of Russia

In his speech Rusk denounced the Communist Chinese government as a puppet of Russia and said that the Nationalists on Formosa would "continue to receive important aid and assistance from the United States." Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio promptly declared that this was a victory for General Douglas MacArthur, since it represented just what MacArthur has been advocating. Rusk denies that his speech was intended to make any change in administration policy.

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois spoke at the same dinner. His talk received less attention. The Senator believes that his speech and Rusk's speech said virtually the same thing.

Therefore, it is important to note that Douglas is more specific in what he would do to try to unseat or at least unsettle the Communist regime. The two main points he makes are:

1. Give American aid to guerrillas on the Chinese mainland who are at present resisting the Communists. This aid would be given by American air-drops and with the use of American landing ships on strips of the China coast that are said to be held by the guerrillas. Reports are that such aid is already being given by the United States.

2. Tell Chiang Kai-Shek that he is free to go back to the mainland to operate against the Communists. But he would have to go in his own way, with the help of American sea or air support.

Now this says Douglas, is not the MacArthur policy. Douglas opposes bombing in Manchuria and China because to do so would kill Chinese civilians. Killing Chinese civilians, as he sees it, would be likely to inflame peoples throughout the Orient against the United States especially since the suspicion is already widespread in the East that America considers Orientals expendable. Another reason Douglas opposes MacArthur's proposal to bomb is that it might bring Russia into what would then become World War III.

Not The MacArthur Policy

But if this is not the MacArthur policy, then neither does it conform to the testimony given by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, before the Senate committee investigating MacArthur's dismissal. Bradley said the JCS would have no objection to unleashing Chiang's troops against the mainland. But he made it quite plain that this could not be done without American air and navy and possibly also troop support. And the JCS would not consider that a worthwhile use of extensive American force.

Incidentally, the JCS were not consulted about the Rusk speech. It came as a considerable surprise to the Pentagon. Nor was the speech, according to reliable reports, cleared with the White House.

On the surface the conclusion is inescapable that the Douglas line—or Douglas-Rusk line—represents still another China policy. Still another jigsaw in the tangled heap!

As enunciated thus far, it has serious limitations. Seemingly without regard to the Korean war, it overlooks the possibility of negotiation that would bring about some sort of peace in Asia. The prospect is, therefore, for continuing action against the Chinese Communists until presumably the regime in Peking falls.

This is opposed to the kind of realism that Winston Churchill through the past three years has almost alone continued to utter. The essence of that wisdom is that if you are not to have a continuing series of small wars, which sooner or later lead to a big war, then you must negotiate—from strength—for the best possible peace that can be obtained. Such a peace may not represent every man's wishes for every area of the world. But it might avert total disaster.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

It is a beautiful morning as I write this.
The sun is shining. The sky is blue. The birds are singing. The wistaria is just starting to bloom outside my window.

A little farther away I see the white and purple lilac, and the dogwood, in all their glory.

It is the kind of day that makes you glad you are alive and thank God for having given you so much to enjoy.

But alongside of me lie my morning newspapers with which I have just finished.

In them is gloom.
But none of that gloom is God-made. It is all man-made.

Men attended banquets last night and meetings during the day.
At these affairs they spread gloom and fear and dire forebodings.

A Senator said that unless we did what he sponsored, the world would soon come to an end. A cabinet member predicted the destruction of all civilization unless we did just the opposite of what the Senator suggested.

Everybody who spoke had something to say about what is WRONG.

Nobody had anything to say about the thousands of things that are RIGHT.

When human beings act that way they show their complete ignorance of value.

You need go no farther than the first chapter of the Bible to see that God created everything else before He created MAN.

He DID create man not just to enjoy all those other things but also to be their caretaker, their guardian, their preserver.

Yet even without MAN the Universe would still be here. There would still be trees and flowers, mountains and seas, the sun, the moon, the stars.

If we could only learn the relative importance of ourselves in the whole scheme of the world.

If we could only see ourselves as we must look to God, whom we picture in His heaven, looking down upon us billions of human pin-points, making an unholy mess of His wonderful creation!

Yesterday I browsed around in Samuel Pepys' Diary, written away back around 1660.

He describes a dinner as follows:

"We had a fricassee of rabbits and chickens, a leg of mutton boiled, three carps in a dish, a great dish of a side of lamb, a dish of roasted pigeons, a dish of lobsters, three tarts, a lamprey pie, a dish of anchovies, a good wine of several sorts, and all things mighty noble and to my great content."

But here is another entry:

"About the middle of the night I was very ill—I think with eating and drinking too much—and so I was forced to call my wife. But in the morning I was pretty well, only got cold, and so had pain."

Whenever Samuel Pepys had committed misdemeanors against nature, he became very pessimistic and thought the world was coming to an end. But then he took some medicine and felt better.

A little spiritual bicarbonate of soda might do US a lot of good today.

HOW CAREFUL!
Granddad says it is pretty hard to figure on being careful. He got a new pair of glasses. Then he forgot about putting them on a chair. He sat down on them and got cut. The cut wasn't in his eye either.

He put white paint on the bottom step of the cellar stairs. Granddad carried a basket of clothes down the steps. She couldn't see the step for the basket. She fell and broke her hip.

Granddad says there ought to be a law to make the women use the clothes chute, but you know Granddad.

Pennsylvania Week Is Decreed By Governor Fine

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS)—Celebration of Pennsylvania Week, October 15-21 was decreed Wednesday by Gov. John S. Fine. "Pennsylvania Week this year will be made up primarily of observances at the local level," said the governor and Commerce Secretary Andrew J. Sordani in a joint statement.

They hinted there had been indecision whether to schedule the celebration but said "too many good things have come out of Pennsylvania Week in the last five years to abandon it even during these times of international stress."

The Commerce department will coordinate programs.

I. S. Sahli, a Beaver Falls businessman, earlier was named chairman of the Pennsylvania Week committee.

Sordani said the decision to concentrate level observance was prompted by a desire to emphasize home town importance. "This way there can be more intensive publicity of each community's attractions and potentialities," he declared. "There can be more real community activity in the development of programs for local observances. More communities will have a better opportunity to arrange events that simultaneously tell the story of this great state and their own locality. Each community has a great story to tell. Each can tell it during Pennsylvania Week. The sum total can be the greatest story ever told about the Keystone state."

McBride Post Is Ready For Poppy Day On Saturday

Cpl. Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is all ready for the distribution of Buddy Poppies here on Saturday, May 26.

These poppies have been made in U. S. Veterans hospitals by disabled veterans of the two World Wars, and in offering the poppies to the public, the post is following out the custom established many years ago, of "Honoring the dead by helping the living."

James J. Dennis is general chairman, with Mrs. Lillian Davis, co-chairman. The poppies will be sold by juniors of the post members, Girl Scouts, and post and auxiliary members. Two cars will be kept at the home to distribute poppies where they are needed. The finances will be in charge of C. A. Leslie, quartermaster of the post.

Breeches first were worn by the ancient Greeks, and were regarded as the badge of slavery.

ELEPHANTS NEW YORK.—(INS)—There's a reason why there hasn't been an elephant born in the United States since 1905. The explanation, says Cosmopolitan magazine, is that there aren't any male elephants in the country. The bulls are too hard to handle, so dealers import only female elephants.

WAMPUM

POPPY DAY SATURDAY
"Our Silent Tribute, Wear a Poppy." Won't you do that Saturday when the women of the local American Legion Auxiliary rap at your door or approach you on the street to buy a poppy?

The women have been given the privilege of bringing to our American Legion Auxiliary their poppies which are available to everyone, everywhere, so that all Americans can share in the inspiring experience of wearing a memorial poppy.

All proceeds from the poppy sale will be used for rehabilitation aid to the war disabled and the needy children of war veterans among the services "Poppy Day" funds are used.

MEMORIAL PROGRAM
An impressive program was presented Tuesday night at the meeting of the local American Legion Auxiliary in the Legion Home on Beaver street, in commemoration of Memorial Day.

The service opened with the singing of "America" by the group. Other numbers were a vocal solo, "In Lilac Time" by Mrs. Robert Conrad accompanied at the piano by Miss Pearl Truby; reading, "Poppies," Mrs. Thomas Cody, Jr.; piano solo, "America The Beautiful," Miss Truby; reading, "The Land, the People, and the Symbol," Mrs. William Sanders and coronet solo, "Medley of National Songs," Billy Seaburn.

A picture of Flanders Field, marked with 12 white crosses and a red poppy on each cross was used to pay tribute to the boys in the community who paid the supreme sacrifice. Twelve white carnations, one for each of the boys were placed in a white vase by Mrs. Charles Aiken, to mark the unknown soldier's grave. Mrs. Earl Grinnin then gave a reading, "In Flanders Fields" and Mrs. Conrad sang "My Buddy." A minute of silent prayer and taps played by Billy Seaburn closed the service.

Mrs. Ray McBride read a poem "The Star" as a tribute to the Gold Star Mothers, she then presented Mrs. Martha McClintock with a Gold Star pin.

Mrs. McBride, president, conducted the business session, and welcomed the following new members: Mrs. Carl Truby, Mrs. Frank Mielke, Mrs. James Grekou, Mrs. Margaret Blythe, Mrs. Mike Flumer, Mrs. Angelo Buccelli, Mrs. Clair Houk, Sr., Mrs. Wilfred Frye, Mrs. Mary Kelley, Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. Ed. Noggle.

Plans were made for a Tri-Line luncheon June 14 in conjunction with a Flag Day celebration of the unit. Final arrangements were made for the Poppy Day sale Saturday.

At the close of a social period a delicious lunch was served by the social committee, Mrs. McClintock, Mrs. George Harper, Mrs. Paul Herbert and Mrs. McBride.

Another meeting will be held in June.

Volant Lions Hear Linesville Pastor And J. Audley Boak

Two speakers were heard at the meeting of the Volant Lions' club in the Volant Methodist church this week. They were the Rev. Robert Naylor, of the Linesville Methodist church, and J. A. Boak, well-known Lawrence county farmer and grange official.

Due to the illness of the club's president, Paul Shaw, Elmer Brown, first vice-president, was in charge of the meeting. Seventeen members answered roll call. During the business hour plans were made for the annual Fourth of July celebration with Harold Shaw being named general chairman of the event.

Introduced by Chaplain William A. Lloyd, Rev. Naylor gave a brief talk on human kindness. His subject was "What Kind of a Person Should I Be Today?" Naylor was no stranger to the majority of the club members, having served as pastor of the Volant-White Chapel churches some years ago. He and Mrs. Naylor were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Johnston, Sr., during his visit in Volant this week.

Ralph Cunningham introduced the second speaker, J. Audley Boak, of New Castle, R. D. 4. "Opportunities and Philosophies of Life" was his topic, being based on the story of The Good Samaritan. He stated that because of one theory America is in danger of decay from within. It is the theory of the world owing individuals a living and that what each person is not given may be taken by force.

According to the opinion expressed by Mr. Boak, those who adhere to Christian principles must stop this trend. A second menace was said to be the "something for nothing" idea which seems to be more apparent each day. This includes the principle of what is mine is mine only.

The third point in the talk was on the Christian basis of sharing which is demonstrated in service clubs around the world.

The concluding feature was the showing of a film, "Shortest Way Home," by Lion Brown.

No program was announced for the next meeting which will be June 12, at the Volant Methodist church.

The library of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia is rated the most important of its kind in the world. It has 150,000-odd volumes.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—(INS)—Women spend too much time talking when they should let their eyes speak for them, says veteran director Robert Z. Leonard.

"Talk with your eyes and keep your mouth shut, girls," is the advice of "Pop" Leonard, who in his 35 years in Hollywood has directed all the glamour numbers, from Clara Kimball Young and Mae Murray to Greta Garbo, Gloria Swanson, Norma Shearer and Joan Crawford.

The Eyes Have It

According to Leonard, the old adage that "the eyes have it" is true, if you make it true.

"Women spend too much time yap-yapping," says Leonard. "The would-be glamor girls could take a lesson from Lana Turner. Her sultry orbs have sizzled through love scenes that needed no dialogue."

Ava Gardner, Marlene Dietrich, Vivien Leigh and Rita Hayworth are others, the director recalls, who know how to turn on their "lamps". Even the crinkly eyes of June

Allyson get the nod from "Pop," who is directing the star in "Too Young To Kiss."

"For," says the director, "though June wears braces on her teeth and a 14-year-old's clothes, when she blinks those eyes at Van Johnson, you know she is ripe for a kiss."

"Remember," he adds, "if one picture is worth a thousand words, one look can be worth a couple of thousand."

BUILD SEXY LOUNGE

Sometimes even in the movies, passion must bow to the practical. Universal-International built a very sexy lounge so that Jeff Chandler could make love to Maureen O'Hara in the manner to which an oriental princess is accustomed for the epic, "Flame of Araby."

When it was discovered that this particular 6 foot 4 inch thespian needed a couch that fit his brand of love-making, the cabinet makers had to add another foot and a half to the lounge before Director Charles Lamont could call "camera, lights, action."

"It's hard enough to make love in front of a camera," said Chandler, "when you are comfortable. But when you legs are dangling over the end of a couch it is impossible."

THIS AND THAT

Short Takes: Bing Crosby and Bob Hope have taken the hilarious route to Singapore, Zanzibar and Morocco. Their next together is "Road to Bali". . . . Lionel Barrymore portrays Andrew Jackson for

AGNES THOMPSON SETS WEDDING DATE

The forthcoming marriage of Miss Agnes Thompson was announced when her sister, Miss Barbara Thompson, entertained a group of friends at her home, 1408 East Washington street.

Cards were the featured diversion of the evening, with competitive honors going to Miss Carol Rashid, Mrs. Patricia Trusel and Miss Agnes Thompson.

The bride-to-be was the recipient of an assortment of gifts of a personal nature. Gifts were arranged on a table before a mantle banked with miniature church and bride and groom.

Later appetizing refreshments were served at a table attractively appointed. As a means of announcing the wedding date, at each place setting was a diminutive bride favor tagged with "Agnes and Don, June 5." Mrs. Patricia Trusel assisted the hostess.

At an open church ceremony to be solemnized in the Third U. P. church on Tuesday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m., Miss Thompson will be united in marriage to Donald Morris. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Thompson, 1408 East Washington street, while her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morris, Valley road.

EAGLES AUXILIARY BANQUET EVENT

Thirty guests were entertained in a charming manner at the home of Mrs. Angeline Troglio, Butler road, when a chicken dinner was served to the ladies of the Eagles auxiliary bowling teams Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Helen Reno and Mrs. Kathryn Williams assisted Mrs. Troglio with the decorations and a blue and white color scheme was used.

Following dinner a short meeting was held. Bowling will again be enjoyed this fall. The following officers were elected captains: Mrs. Josephine Mooney and Mrs. Thelma Whitman; treasurer, Mrs. Virginia Isaac; and secretary, Mrs. Helen Orres.

Everyone present was given an ensemble of lovely summer jewelry. Mrs. Troglio was also given a gift as hostess for the occasion.

Cards and games were enjoyed for the remainder of a memorable evening.

BAIRD SOCIETY ENJOYS PROGRAM

Baird Missionary society members assembled in Highland U. P. church Wednesday afternoon for their May meeting.

Mrs. Samuel Moore, devotional leader, used "Sowing the Seed" as her theme. Mrs. C. J. Streib, who was responsible for the program, discussed "The United Presbyterian Missionary Work in Africa."

A tasty lunch was served by Mrs. John Street, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Samuel Boughter and Mrs. Fred Lipp, hostesses.

Plans are being made for a picnic luncheon in the church June 27, with Mrs. Lee Pyle in charge of reservations.

Busy Dozen Club

Members of the Busy Dozen club met at the home of Mrs. Emma Farrone, Croton avenue, Wednesday evening for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Lena Mehlich presided at a brief business meeting. Plans were made for an anniversary party to be held June 6 at a Harlansburg dining room.

Special guests of the evening were Mrs. Jean Kennedy and Mrs. Mary Farrone. Mrs. Farrone came to New Castle from Italy the latter part of April and is going to make her home in New Castle. Mrs. Esther DeSalvo received a gift in remembrance of her birthday.

Refreshments were served by the hostess with Mrs. Eleanor Juliano and Mrs. Mary Yacabony assisting.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Louise Malley, Federal street, on June 20.

Legislation Curbing BB Gun State Sales Near Final House Vote

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS)—Legislation curbing BB gun sales is scheduled for final House vote today.

If approved, the measure will have to make its way through the Senate and be signed by Gov. John S. Fine.

The bill, co-sponsored by Rep. James R. Robertson (R) Delaware and Louis Leonard (D) Allegheny, calls for limiting air rifle sales to licensed firearm stores. Only youth over 16 years of age would be allowed to purchase BB guns unaccompanied by parents.

Adults would have to accompany youths under 16 when carrying air rifles in public. Shooting would be restricted to private land or to target areas on public property.

Rep. Gus Wachhaus, a blind Schuylkill county Republican lawmaker, was not successful in winning support of an amendment to make parents or guardians liable for civil damages stemming from BB-gun accidents.

Colleagues turned down his plea to "protect the eyes of children of Pennsylvania" by strengthening the bill.

The house also rejected Rep. Herman J. Tahl's amendment to allow minor judiciary to turn over money from fines for BB gun violations to physicians and hospitals as part payment of expenses for victims of air rifle accidents.

Benjamin Franklin designed a dollar made of silver, brass and pewter, bearing the motto "Mind Your Own Business," and minted in 1776.

FOUR DELEGATES NAMED TO NATIONAL 4-H CAMP

Four Pennsylvania farm youths have been named delegates to the 1951 national 4-H camp in Washington June 13 to 20. They are Esther Faye Clossen, 20, Bloomsburg, Columbia county; Idalee Wells, 20, Belle Vernon, Westmoreland county; Joseph Hartle, Jr., 18, Bellefonte, Center county; and Earle Yerkes, Jr., 18, Pipersville, Bucks county.

In Washington they will observe the national government at work, and study aspects of leadership and citizenship which they can apply in their 4-H club and community work when they return home. Their expenses will be borne by the committee on agricultural development of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association. Pennsylvania State college 4-H leaders, who made the selections from nominations submitted by county agents in agriculture and home economics in the different counties will accompany them.

All are graduates of high school. All have attended club week and leadership school at the college, and all have assumed leadership roles in their clubs and communities. Miss Clossen is a second-year home economics student at Mansfield State Teachers college. Their selection follows closely after the recognition of two other 4-H members for outstanding 4-H achievement and leadership. These recipients were Arlene E. Landis, 19, also of Pipersville, and William H. Lazar, Jr., Jeannette, Westmoreland county, a second-year animal husbandry student at Penn State. Each received $25 cash from a fund set up by James Mulholland, Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania State college board of trustees and former acting president of the college. The fund and awards are in memory of the late Furman H. Gyger, Sr., of Kimberton, Chester county, also a trustee of the college for many years.

Zeigler, who will serve as course leader; senior patrol leader, N. J. McCluskey, scout master of troop 43; scribe Alan Chamberlain, scout master of troop 3; and commissary officer, Wm. E. Weitz, scoutmaster of troop 4.

Patrol leaders will be Clinton Kennaday, scoutmaster of troop 44; Harold Aggas, scout master of troop 6; and Perry Skunder, advisor of explorer post 12.

How New York Families Spend Money

NEW YORK, May 24.—My spouse laid down the evening paper.

"Do you buy a pair of nylons a week?" he asked.

"No, I don't. I buy three pairs a month. And maybe an extra pair or so in between if I get a run in the office."

"Doesn't that add up to one a week?" he asked.

"No, of course it doesn't," I explained. "I only buy three pairs a month. All alike. That's for economy. Then if one stocking gets a run, I can marry it off to another orphan. It isn't like losing one glove, and going crazy with the one that's left—or right."

"Hm-m-m-m," murmured the head of the house.

"And of course," I said conscientiously, "there's the occasional extra pair if I am attacked by a rough, uncouth chair or table leg."

"That sounds like a pair a week to me," the master said.

"It certainly is not!" I said firmly. "Like I said, I only buy three pairs every month, and an occasional pair in between when..."

Okay! Okay! You Win!

"Okay, okay, you win," he granted. "You don't buy a pair a week. Just four or five a month."

"That's what I've been telling you!"

"All right. Now, how many pairs of shoes do you have?"

"What is this, a quiz program?"

I wanted to know. "What do I get if I answer three questions correctly? A trip to Europe or a ride through the tunnel of love with Boris Karloff?"

"I am simply trying to find out if we are an average New York family," my spouse explained. He tapped the newspaper. "It says here that the local bureau of the U. S. labor statistics has just completed a study of 625 New York families and how they spend their money."

"You mean, the bureau found 625 families with money to spend? Mirable dictu!"

The Average Family!

"It shows that the average New York family owns a television set on time payment, buys a pair of nylons and a carton of cigarettes a week, reads two to three papers daily, is spending more on fancy funerals, is saving less, spending 30 per cent of income for food, buys one good roast a week and eats hamburgers and stews the rest of the time, and has a mortgage."

"Probably got the mortgage to buy the roast," I said.

"I don't think we're average," my spouse said gloomily. "We haven't got a television set, you buy nylons by the month instead of the week, and we haven't had a fancy funeral in years. We're just not normal."

"Sub or ab?" I asked, and pinched the newspaper to read the piece.

"It says that only one half the families questioned were steady drinkers and the trend in this group was to beer and wine at home and hard liquor on the night out," I read.

"I guess everyone who comes to our house is on his night out," the head of the house sighed.

"You don't catch any visiting schmooes asking for wine or beer once they get a foot in our door."

"It says that everyone has a mortgage. Do we have a mortgage?" I asked.

"Certainly," said my spouse. "What do you think we are, poor trash? Of course, we've got a mortgage!"

"Do you buy a carton of cigarettes a week?" I asked.

"Perish forbid! Of course not!" Add said. "I only buy two packs a day."

"Well, goody! I don't want you smoking much."

"Don't worry," my liege lord said. "As long as you only buy three or four or five pairs of stockings a month and not a week, I promise you I'll stick to two packs a day. Someone in this country has to economize and it might as well be us."

The Atlantic ocean first was mentioned by that name by Herodotus, Roman historian.

Indiana State Teachers College Graduation Plans

"The American Teacher and the World Crisis" will be Dr. McDonald's subject as he speaks to about 362 members of the graduating class in John S. Fisher auditorium. The service begins at 10:30.

Baccalaureate service will be held Sunday, May 27, at 4 p.m. in the John S. Fisher auditorium. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the Foundry Methodist church and chaplain of the United States Senate, Washington, D. C., will give the baccalaureate address using as his subject "Fatal Fallacies."

Alumni Day will be observed on Saturday, May 26, all day. Leon D. Metzger, prominent Harrisburg attorney and member of class of 1911, will be the featured speaker at the traditional Alumni Day luncheon. Attorney Metzger will discuss "Public Support of Education in Pennsylvania."

GOODE BAD

OUTDOOR RAMBLES with N. R. CASILLO

INCOMPARABLE SONGSTERS

If there is a bird song more ethereally exquisite than that of the hermit thrush we have never heard it. The tinkling, bell-like nuances of this shy and elusive bird stimulate the imagination of even those only slightly imaginative.

We sat in a canoe still fishing for bass on a remote lake in the Canadian wilds. The water was as still as a mill pond and all nature seemed gripped in that mystic spell of quietude so characteristic of the north country toward evening.

During a lull in the fishing our taciturn companion noted the ventriloquial song of a hermit coming from the depths of the woodland on the adjacent shore.

The unimaginative individual, sitting in the bow, slowly turned and remarked in a hushed voice, "That music does things to you, doesn't it?"

We were surprised that he even noticed it. "How?" we encouraged. "Well," he hesitated, "it sort of makes you see woods and things in a different way. It reminds me of those woodland pictures that we used to see in the fairy books we read as youngsters. He hit the nail squarely when he added, 'I expect that those Maxfield Parrish pictures have hermit thrushes in 'em.'"

ATHLETES' FOOT GERM HOW TO KILL IT, IN ONE HOUR.

IF NOT PLEASED, your 40c back from any drugstore. T-4-L is specially made for HIGH CONCENTRATION. Undiluted alcohol base gives great PENEETRATING power. Kills IMBEDDED germs on contact. NOW at Eckerd's Drug Store.

En route to its nesting grounds in the north the hermit thrush will occasionally sing. Just the other day a belated migrant hidden among the young, fresh leaves of a small group of maple trees, sent its measured cadences beyond the trees and into an open window of a nearby home. The few magic notes that he heard broke the monotony for a bedfast patient. It brought the breath of the north woods to one who loves them and who has despaired of ever again seeing them.

We have never heard the night-ingle, but those who have, say that it is the surroundings and its continuous night singing that make it even the equal of our hermit; for while the English songster sings in moonlit groves, the hermit thrush tunes his lute in inaccessible haunts, and there is something immortal about the song. It's no wonder that in some regions it is called the swamp angel.

Where the hermit thrush is not resident, the wood thrush is without rival in the power and beauty of its song. His notes have a rare quality of rolling vibrance, at once like the music of a flute and an aeolian harp. The last note of the opening phrase, "ee-o-lee" is high and is often followed by a phrase which descends into a very low note; truly an incomparable range.

The wood thrush is found throughout many sections of town especially if there are trees and shrubbery. It may often be seen working along the edges of shrubbery or even among the flower border picking up many destructive insects as well as snails and slugs.

The wood thrush is a couple of inches shorter than the robin to which it is related. It builds a nest much like that of its better known relative, and even the eggs are similar, both being bluish green in color.

This rather common bird has reddish-brown upper parts, the head being more brightly colored than the rest of the body. Its breast is white spotted in black, the spots arranged in nondescript rows. If you live near its haunts listen for its rich flute-like song, most often heard in late evening or early dawn.

The Columbia river, forming the boundary between the states of Washington and Oregon, is credited with carrying more water than all the other Pacific coast streams combined.

Johnston Outlines Only Policy U.S. Can Now Undertake

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS)—U.S. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said last night America's only alternative in face of the Russian threat is to rearm and to enforce strict economic controls necessary to build the country's giant war machine.

"This country is the only containing force to preserve freedom against an expanding Russia," Johnston declared at the 28th biennial dinner of the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents Association.

Most of Johnston's address was "off the record" to more than 500 newsmen, state and legislative officials and guests.

The one-time czar of the motion picture industry contrasted conditions in Russia between his first visit in 1944 and the second in 1948, and said the Soviet Union has "a very dynamic, expanding economy which combined with communism, gives a force we can well stop to think about."

Medical science has not discovered, as yet, how the aging process, known as senescence, may be controlled by outside force.

Start Probe Of Fatal Wreck

PHILADELPHIA, May 24. — (INS)—A joint federal-state investigation opened Wednesday in Philadelphia to fix responsibility for the Pennsylvania Railroad train wreck which killed eight and injured 63 last Friday at Bryn Mawr.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner William J. Patterson and Public Utility Commissioner John Conly head the probe sessions at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

The army, as the titular operator of the railroad since the government seized them last year in a labor dispute, sent Col. Earl J. Hepburn of its legal department to the hearing.

Patterson announced that the commission's only authority is to determine the cause of the wreck and make recommendations.

The key figure in the probe is Francis B. Yentzer, 62, Harrisburg, who was at the throttle of the Red Arrow, Detroit-to-New York flyer, when it struck the Philadelphia Night Express from Pittsburgh.

Representatives of the ICC, PUC, Army and PRR will question Yentzer at Bryn Mawr hospital this afternoon. He suffered a brain concussion and a compound fracture of the nose.

CANNED APPLESAUCE

NEW YORK — Canned applesauce is plentiful on grocery shelves these days. It's easy to vary the flavor so that it won't be monotonous even when served often. Give it a lift with a little grated orange or lemon rind, spice it with nutmeg or cinnamon, or add tartness with lemon juice. To make it thinner and also sweeter, add honey. Serve it hot one day and cold the next.

CHILD INTERRUPTS

"I have just been criticized for allowing my small child to remain in the room while receiving callers. What is your opinion?"

Answer: I think it is perfectly proper to introduce small children to guests and allow them to remain a short time at your parties or during your friends' calls that they may early obtain those glimpses of social life that will be a foundation for social graces and serve as a background for pleasant memories when they look back on their childhood. But to have your young child hanging upon you or otherwise listening in while you are having confidential chats with callers, or during adult conversations or actions while a lively party is in progress would be not only unwholesome to the child but boring to your guests.

Keep your children childish. Train them to be little ladies and gentlemen; but by all means prevent their becoming precocious. Those allowed to observe and overhear party-doings and party conversations of their elders soon lose the precious naivete of childhood and become unbearably wise for their years.

Question: Is it proper for the bride to carry a bag and gloves when she wears street clothes at her church wedding. If she should not carry a bag, what should she do with her hands while walking up the aisle?

Answer: She may or may not wear gloves. She should not carry a purse. She may be given away by her father, in which event she would take his right arm going up the aisle.

Answer: Should a young person answer with "yes sir" and "yes ma'am"?

Answer: "Yes" and "no" followed by the person's name. Boys say "sir". Girls do not. "Ma'am" is now obsolete in answering your equals, except in the southern United States.

BLUE AND WHITE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Is there blue among the white in your linen closet? Specialists say that there's little or no truth in the old idea that blue tissue paper keeps stored linens and other white articles from turning yellow. Yellowing is usually caused by sizing in the fabric, stains, and by changes due to aging. So if you must store white fabrics over a long period, make sure the fabrics are clean, free from starch, and protected from dust and dirt. Store in a dry, cool place.

Kiwanis Host At Ladies Night

Annual Dinner Party
Held In Castleton

New Castle Kiwanis club was host to the ladies at the club's annual dinner party, in The Castleton, Wednesday evening, when a splendid program of entertainment was presented.

Following a fine chicken dinner, a style show, interspersed by musical numbers, was presented, with Irvin Robins serving as Master of Ceremonies. The style show was presented by the Strouss-Hirschberg company, and featured summer clothes, summer sports wear, and bathing suits. The models were from Junior Woman's club, with Mrs. Delbert Denniston as narrator.

The six models made four appearances, there were musical numbers by Miss Peggy Cannon, on the accordion, vocal duets by Mr. and Mrs. George Peacock, accompanied by Ernel E. Branstetter at the piano, and tap dancing by Angelina Stella.

George Powers, Jr., was general chairman of the evening, assisted by Clarence M. England and Ralph Gibson, and their arrangements left nothing to be desired.

Report Rail Wage Deadlock May Be Broken This Week

By FELIX COTTEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Labor sources said today that the rail wage deadlock may be broken this week with an agreement granting pay increases running to more than 20 cents an hour to 185,000 railway trainmen.

These sources said that substantial progress toward an agreement has been made in recent negotiations involving representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

There is a good chance, it was explained, that a full settlement for the trainmen will be announced Friday. If so, it would end so far as they are concerned, an impasse that has now continued nearly two years.

Prospects are that an agreement for the trainmen would form the pattern for work contracts for the other operating railway brotherhoods, and that these would follow in short order. Once these contracts are negotiated, the expectation is that President Truman will return the railroads to private operation.

Those close to the situation predicted that the trainmen will get "at least" these pay increases: 13.5 cents an hour for 100,000 roadmen and 20.5 cents for 85,000 yardmen.

A.B.C. Broadcasting Company To Merge With Paramount Co.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(NS)—An agreement to merge the American Broadcasting Company and the United Paramount Theaters Inc. awaited today the approval of stockholders and the Federal Communications Commission to become operative.

A joint statement said the merger will make possible complete daytime and evening television programs on a scale and quality not previously attainable. It added:

"New personalities and programs will be introduced to both radio and television. We feel that radio and television as a whole, the public as its customers and our stockholders will gain from the new company."

Firemen's Auxiliary To Meet On Friday

JUDAH IS CAPTIVE IN BABYLON

JERUSALEM DESTROYED, AND THE PEOPLE CARRIED INTO EXILE

Scripture—II Chronicles 36:11-21; Psalm 137; Jeremiah 29:1-14; Ezekiel 1:1-3; 11:14-21; Daniel 1.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
"Zedekiah was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years in Jerusalem."

Alas! Zedekiah did not follow in the way of the Lord, but of his own will. He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon to whom he had sworn allegiance. The prophet Jeremiah warned Zedekiah, but neither he nor his people heeded the warnings.

Then the blow fell. Nebuchadnezzar sent his army to destroy Jerusalem, and they did it very thoroughly. They took all the treasures of the house of God and of the king and his princes. "And they burnt the house of God, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the palaces thereof with fire, and destroyed all the goodly vessels thereof."

Sad, is it not, that after more than 2,000 years, human beings are still destroying one another's cities and carrying people into captivity? Now, however, we have more efficient means of bringing about such destruction. We drop bombs and use other horrible missiles to kill and maim our enemies.

Shouldn't all the world be on its knees, praying God to show us how to keep the peace, to forgive our sins, and help us to obey Him and keep His commandments?

Zedekiah and his people were carried into exile. Jeremiah too was carried away, but he was recognized by the Babylonian king and given his choice to stay or go back to his people. He chose to return.

In Psalm 137 we are told of the desolation of the captives in a strange land: "By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion."

"How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?"

In Jerusalem, Jeremiah thought of his people who were living among strangers and far from home, and he wrote a letter to them, which began, "Thus said the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, unto all that are carried away captives."

"Build ye houses, and dwell in them; and plant gardens, and eat the fruit of them." He also told them to marry and have families that they might grow strong. In other words, as they had sinned and were being punished for it by a just God, they were to make the best of the situation and seek the peace of the city whither I have caused you to be carried away captives, and pray unto the Lord for it, for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace."

Jeremiah warned the people not to listen to the false prophets in Babylon, and that the Lord promised that after 70 years of captivity he would take away their captivity and return them to their homeland.

"And ye shall call upon Me, and ye shall go and pray unto Me, and I will hearken unto you."

"And ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart."

"And I will be found of you, saith Jehovah, and I will turn again your captivity, and I will gather you from all nations, and from all the places whither I have driven you, saith Jehovah; and I will bring you unto the place whence I caused you to be carried away captive."

After all this time, this prophecy is coming true. The Jewish people are flocking back to Palestine from the lands where they have been persecuted and slain. May they live in peace, surmounting the difficulties and dangers that threaten all of us!

Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, called his chief of the eunuchs and asked him to choose certain Israelite children who were well born, comely of person, and well educated, and have them taught the language of the Chaldeans.

They were to be fed from the king's table, and after three years this eunuch, whose name was Ashpenaz, was to bring them before the king.

Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah were chosen for the experiment, but Ashpenaz changed Daniel's name to Belteshazzar; Hananiah's to Shadrach; Mishael's to Meshach and Azariah to Abednego.

Daniel, however, rebelled against the king's food and wine. He asked the eunuch if they might not rather eat the simple food to which they had been accustomed and which was sanctioned by their religion.

The eunuch asked Daniel if he wanted him (Ashpenaz) to lose his head by disobeying the king's order, but Daniel said to say nothing, but to allow them to eat and drink as he suggested for 10 days, and then see if they would not appear as well nourished as the Babylonian boys.

The eunuch agreed, and at the end of the period set, the four Jewish boys were taken before the king, and Nebuchadnezzar found them fairer and fatter in flesh than all the other young people, and "in all matters of wisdom and understanding, that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all the realm."

Many Cities In State Look Into Water Treatment Plan

By AL SPIVAK

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS)—At least 40 Pennsylvania municipalities are reported considering the possibility of chemical treatment of local water supplies to curb tooth decay in children.

Dr. G. Kinwood Grace, director of the State Dental Health Bureau, said there has been a "definite increase in interest over last year" in a process by which fluorine is added to water supplies to strengthen tooth enamel of youngsters.

There is no evidence, he added, that fluorine-treated water is beneficial to children over eight years old.

Ford City Gets Permit

He said Ford City is the only community in the state which has received permission to use the process.

"While formal applications have not been received from any other local unit," he explained, "it is that in Pennsylvania there are a multitude of different types of water supply systems providing assorted engineering problems."

These requests for information, he said, were submitted by local officials, Chamber of Commerce, waterworks executives, and civic leaders.

"A big roadblock to instituting programs," he explained, "is that in Pennsylvania there are a multitude of different types of water supply systems providing assorted engineering problems."

While this has caused delay, he said, it is only "a question of time before more localities adopt the fluorine plan."

"Best Effect Shown"

"As a matter of fact," he said, "its best effect has been shown only when a child was born in a community with fluorine-treated water and lived there all through the first eight years of his life."

The Commonwealth is not promoting the fluorine process, Dr. Grace said, although it offers engineering aid to communities requesting it. No state financial aid has been offered, he added.

A state Senate measure introduced by Sen. George M. Leader (D) York, proposes that the Commonwealth furnish sodium fluoride to communities wishing to provide machinery and equipment to introduce it into their water supplies subject to health department approval. The measure was referred to the committee on public health and welfare.

Must Be Endorsed

Local medical and dental societies must endorse fluorine treatment and local public health units must approve it before it can be adopted by a town or city, Grace pointed out.

State Health Department standards require that the fluorine be added only by methods recommended by the American Waterworks Association.

The state agency gave a green-light to the process on an experimental basis last year.

Eighty per cent of Wisconsin's population drink fluorine-treated water, according to Grace, and it is used on a large scale in several other areas in the nation.

"We have pretty good reports coming in from Michigan and Wisconsin," he said, "as well as from other points."

Nevertheless, he said, there has been no data to convince him that the process is beneficial to persons eight years old or beyond.

IDENTICAL HATS

PHILADELPHIA.—There are 30 young ladies in Philadelphia who have no objection to showing up in identical hats. They're enrolled in a "radarette" training program at Temple university. There, they're learning to replace male technicians in many vital jobs essential to war production. The radarettes all wear identical pert red hats.

NEW YORK.—Out of necessity comes a little trick to save life and limb around the house. Tenor Giuseppe DiStefano found that he was always tripping because the small scatter rugs on his floor were always slipping. One day he spied some rubber rings from fruit jars and suggested that his wife sew them to the underneath corners of the scatter rugs. She did, and the husky singer finds that the scatter rugs no longer start to skid when he steps on them.

Predict 1000 Mile Per Hour Jet Bombers In Five Years

By WILLIAM KERWIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va., May 24. — Government scientists predicted the development within five years of 1,000-mile-per-hour jet bombers and fighter planes capable of out-manoeuvring anything the Russians might produce.

Production of the planes, now in the designing stage, would give the United States aircraft flying twice as fast as the jets now in operation by the Air Force and the Navy.

The extra speed would permit faster interception by American fighters of enemy air attack forces and permit U.S. bombers to out-distance and out-manuever enemy interceptors over a bombing target.

Will Be Changed

Officials said the military plane of tomorrow will highlight a sharply pointed nose, and have a fuselage much thinner than those in present day use.

In addition, the 1956 jet bomber will feature razor-sharp, swept-back wings, extending almost to the tail assembly. A somewhat similar triangular wing arrangement is planned for the fighter.

Rocket models of futuristic fighters and bombers are being shot daily into the Atlantic ocean at the Wallops Island research laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

NACA scientists, opening the doors of their research center for the first time in its six-year history, showed newsmen how a ten-second flight of a precisely built rocket model can save five years plane building work that could end in success or failure.

To illustrate the point, NACA rocket-launched a model fighter and "twin engine" bomber weighing less than 300 pounds each and no more than eight feet in length.

Select Best Design

Both planes, fired separately, flew only a split-second at a speed roughly calculated at 1,140 miles per hour. Intricate radio systems in each model transmitted the necessary engineering information on the flight.

Through a series of similar tests of other closely related models, officials explained, scientists are able to select the best design for the speed desired by military authorities.

After the test, Robert R. Gilruth, chief of NACA's pilotless aircraft research division, said that military planes flying more than 1,000 miles per hour "are very definitely in the picture of things to come." He declined for security reasons to say whether the U.S. now has achieved engines capable of that speed.

GETS LAST WORD

DETROIT. — A suicide victim entrusted her last message to her dog. Police said that before taking her life with a shotgun blast, Mrs. Hazel Reynolds, 30, tucked a note addressed to her husband into the dog's collar. It read: "Louis: Please take care of my dog."

Estate Battle Now Looming

Legal Battle Impends
Over Size Of Estate
Of Late Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO, May 24.—(INS)—Chicago's late former Mayor Edward J. Kelly knew all the answers to every political problem but he left one big question mark in his fabulous career for his widow.

That is—how much was he really worth in money when he died on Oct. 20, 1950, of a sudden heart attack?

Mrs. Margaret Kirk Kelly today is involved in a legal controversy which promises to equal any of the political battles in which her late husband engaged during a lifetime in Chicago and on the national scene.

An inventory submitted by two of Kelly's old friends, former Cook County sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy and William McKenna, has listed big Ed's estate as worth some $600,000. Mulcahy and McKenna were named with Mrs. Kelly as co-executors of the estate.

The attractive widow has refused to sign the inventory in probate court. She indignantly charges that her late husband was worth "at least double that figure—if not more."

She has made no charges of wrong doing against Mulcahy or McKenna but has promised to stage a legal investigation that may uncover most of big Ed's most closely guarded deals.

Probate Court Judge William Waugh has given her attorney, Judge Francis Coyle, until June 15 to file objections to the inventory. Coyle may file a petition for discovery of assets which will enable Mrs. Kelly to subpoena anyone she believes may have hidden knowledge of her late husband's undeclared property or money.

Newspaper Says Red Offer Indirectly Made On Cease-Fire

NEW YORK, May 24.—(INS)—The New York Times said today that Russia offered recently through indirect channels to discuss a cease-fire in Korea with the United States.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Working Together

"Come on, Bill, let's tackle that basement," John Dorn said to his son one Saturday morning. With a cheery, "Okay, Pop!" Bill followed his dad down the cellar steps. While they straightened things up, three-year-old Marianne was helping mother dust in the living room. With her own apron, broom and dustcloth, she did the minor chores while Mrs. Dorn took care of the rest of the job.

Does it sound all too good to be true? Naturally, Bill wasn't dusting as in playing with her dolls. But the Dorns, like many other parents, had discovered that when they worked together with their children, things went much more smoothly than when a job was assigned to be done alone. Camp counselors, club leaders and teacher have discovered the same thing. It's only to be expected that children will work better alongside grownups who are doing their share.

And if children's first experiences with work are on this "alongside" basis, they're much more likely to develop a feeling of satisfaction in work that will carry them over into finding fun in doing jobs by themselves.

Committee Favors Hike In Third Class Mail Rates

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS)—The house post office committee on Wednesday approved hikes in third class mail designed to increase the postal deficit by $37,864,000.

The committee okayed an increase in the minimum for handling bulk mail from one to one and one-half cents apiece. This will bring in an estimated 33.7 million dollars.

The reinstating of the $10 fee for a third class permit is to increase the revenue by an estimated $2,351,700. And a five cent charge for odd shaped pieces will bring in an estimated $1,750,000.

The new additions, added to those already approved by the committee, will increase the post office revenue by some $97,699,522. The committee expects to add another 29 million dollars for special services.

Members will assemble at the Legion Home at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, and will march to the First Christian church on the Diamond, in a body, accompanied by the band, where the memorial exercises will take place.

Sunday afternoon post members will meet at the Legion Home at 3 o'clock, and will then go to Greenwood, St. Mary's, and Shenango U.P. cemeteries, where they will decorate the graves of all veterans buried there.

The post voted a contribution of $25 to the Boy Scout project of erecting a replica of the Statue of Liberty at the intersection of Grove and South Mill streets.

Maurice Zeigler, officer in charge of the U. S. Veteran Administration here, spoke on insurance and non-service connected pensions.

Senior Vice Commander Al Walker discussed the membership campaign now under way, which will close on July 4, when the post hopes to attain its membership goal.

Nomination and election of officers will take place in June, Commander Manning Weller announces.

Atomic Artillery Shells Use Urged In Korean Warfare

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS)—The United States was urged today to use atomic artillery shells in the Korean war.

Rep. Brooks (D) La., a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said that the U. S. has developed the atomic artillery. He declared its use in the Far East would shorten the war.

Brooks indicated that the new atomic artillery shell was exploded at the recent atomic tests in Nevada and at Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific.

He said: "The recent test explosions have shown our progress and we should immediately take advantage of the possibility offered by the development of the new atomic artillery shell."

The Congressman said that the shells have "recently been developed."

While Brooks did not attend the recent tests, several members of the committee did so and presumably reported back to their colleagues on the results.

Says Russia Lacks Tanker Fleet To Use Middle East Oil

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(INS)—An American oil expert said that Russia lacks a tanker fleet and a navy to utilize Middle Eastern petroleum in event of war but she can deny it to the free world.

Ralph G. Follis, chairman of the Standard Oil Co., of California and director of the Arabian-American Oil Co., said he was sure the present Anglo-Iranian row will be settled because Iran needs the British market for oil exports.

Pointing out that petroleum is the basis for Iran's economy, Follis said:

"It's just a question of what kind of settlement would be made."

Follis minimized the prospect that Russia could transport Iranian oil by rail or pipeline. In event of air attack, he said, "it would be quite a job."

He concluded that the chances of Russia using Middle Eastern oil are "nil" but "the danger of their denying it to us is considerable."

Engineer In Wreck Gives His Testimony

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(INS)—Hospital-bed testimony by the engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Red Arrow Flyer revealed today that he was traveling 35 to 40 miles an hour when his train plowed into the rear of a stalled Night Express at Bryn Mawr last Friday.

Francis B. Yentzer, 62, of Harrisburg, the engineer, gave details of the crash in which eight persons were killed and 63 others were injured, from his bed in Bryn Mawr hospital where he is recovering from a concussion and a broken nose.

He told probes for the Interstate Commerce Commission and the State Public Utility Commission that he had an "approach medium" signal permitting a speed of 45 miles an hour, and that he was four to five car lengths away when he saw the stalled night train.

Yentzer's account was substantiated by the fireman, Clarence W. Ward, 44, of Sunbury, who told the investigators they saw the halted train as they rounded a curve at Rosemont.

Crash Instant Later
"There's a rear! Dump it!" Ward said he shouted to Yentzer, meaning to apply the emergency brake. He told the probes Ward already appeared to have applied the brakes when he shouted and did slam on the emergency, but the crash came an instant later.

Before leaving Harrisburg, the fireman said they had made all routine tests on their locomotive and had found everything in order. Earlier, E. F. Deangelis, 29, fireman of the Night Express from Pittsburgh, which was struck by the Red Arrow, related how his train stopped because an object hanging from its undercarriage had

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK, May 24 — (INS) — The pinafore—one of the what-its-every woman knows—is returning to style this summer.

This year, it has come out of the cotton-print—$1.98-kitchen class. Instead, the pinafore is being made into models as light and fluffy as the dust women used to pin down in their pinafores.

Tops among the sheer models, which are dressy enough for cocktails on anybody's patio, are big-skirted pinafores in dotted swisses, organdies and starched dimities. Often the sheers are patterned in checks, stripes or small florals. They're worn with either plain colored sheer blouses, or in the more formal manner with bare shoulders and stark white jewelry.

Pinafores can be worn with dignity, as well as comfort, this summer!

Most gem diamonds come from South Africa's mines, industrial diamonds from the Belgian Congo.

Miss Helen McQueen, better known as "Queenie" and former camp counselor, will be the life-guard at the pool this year. Campers at Camp East Brook are familiar with Queenie's capabilities and this year should prove one of fun and good exercise.

Carol Foster, a student at the University of Miami, Oxford, O., will also be at the pool this year. Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Foster, of R. D. 8.

It's later than you think, campers! So get busy and send in your registrations!

During Queen Victoria's reign in England, crime dropped almost 90 per cent.

Says Higher Freight Rates Are Needed

ALBANY, May 24.—(INS)—Gustav Metzmann, president of the New York Central Railroad, told stockholders today that higher freight rates are necessary to help the road meet soaring costs.

He pointed out that the railroad's wage bill has increased $51,000,000 on an annual basis since last year, while unit prices of material and supplies have jumped $7,000,000 a year.

To offset this $58,000,000 rise in costs, the Interstate Commerce Commission has granted a four percent interim rate increase expected to bring in $15,000,000 a year in additional freight revenues.

An airline can be seen under favorable conditions from a distance of about 10,000 to 15,000 feet.

Since 1775, U.S. Marines have made more than 200 landings on foreign shores.

Williams, who hasn't made 135 pounds for a fight in too many a long moon, asked that the weight-in be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. instead of noon, the usual time.

Request Refused
Commissioner Eddie Egan, who said evidence points to the fact that Williams should have no difficulty making the weight, turned down the champion's request.

Williams weighed 137 pounds yesterday after concluding his workouts for the bout.

Carter, who took the day off at his training camp, said he expects to weigh in at 134 pounds. The challenger also asked the commission to recognize him as the champion if Williams fails to make the 135-pound weight. But he was turned down.

"If Williams can't make the weight, Carter will still be recognized as a challenger for the title and nothing more," Egan said.
